INFORMATION RELEASE

A federal court for the Eastern District of Texas at Sherman has entered judgment against American Honda Motor Co. as a result of a jury finding of a dangerous defect in one of Honda's cars.

The judgment in Kim v Honda, follows a jury finding of $21.5 Million in damages suffered by the vehicle occupants, but the court reduced their recovery to $5.5 Million because of negligence of a person driving another car which caused the side (T-bone) impact.

The jury determined the 2014 Honda Civic was dangerously defective because Honda had not equipped the vehicle with either a center mounted air bag or an alternate seat belt design that could have prevented her brother from being thrown across the car and cracking skulls with his 21-year-old sister, Su Min. She received a long-term disabling brain injury and her brother a T.B.I.

Plaintiffs were represented by the Turley Law Firm of Dallas. T Nguyen headed the Turley Team.

Windle Turley from the Turley Firm said, "I am extremely proud of the work and results our team achieved. Hopefully this result will stimulate other vehicle manufacturers, and that is almost all of them, to modify their own dangerous designs to reduce serious injury and death in side impact accidents."
